Journal of Ornithology ON bringing to a close the third volume of the Seventh Series of 'the Ibis,' the Editors again wish to offer their best thanks to the friends and correspondents who have favoured them with articles for the present year. The contributions, it will be observed, are both varied and numerous, and have enabled the Editors to complete a volume which in size almost rivals that of The coloured illustrations have been slightly reduced in number, in view of the expenditure consequent upon the preparation and publication of the new General Index. This Index, which refers to the genera and species mentioned in the Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth Series of 'the Ibis,' and for the superintendence of which the best thanks of the Union are due to Mr. Osbert Salvin, was issued to the subscribers in April last. The Ibis, Vol. 1 Dec 12 2021 Excerpt from The Ibis, Vol. 1: A Quarterly Journal of Ornithology; 1871 It was not without hesitation that, in compliance with the request of my valued friend and predecessor Professor Newton, I offered my services as Editor of a Third Series of this Journal, when he from pressure of other engagements was obliged to resign the post. I felt considerable diffidence in my powers to carry on 'The Ibis' with ability at all equal to that which has supported it during the twelve years of its existence. Though I trust that fewer defects will be found in future Volumes, I still hope that the present one may not be considered unworthy of those that have appeared before it. My best thanks are due for the assistance I have received from many quarters; but to Mr. Sclater I owe a special debt for cordial and ready help, of which I have not hesitated very frequently to avail myself. The Ibis, 1905, Vol. 5 Jul 27 2020 Excerpt from The Ibis, 1905, Vol. 5: A Quarterly Journal of Ornithology The Editors regret the slight delay that has taken place in the issue of the final number of this Journal for the present year, owing to their absence in South Africa at the Meetings of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. Had not Mr. Howard Saunders kindly proffered his welcome assistance, which was gratefully accepted, the delay might have been still more serious, as the Editors could not return to England before October 6th. The Ibis, 1875, Vol. 5 May 25 2020 Excerpt from The Ibis, 1875, Vol. 5: A Quarterly Journal of Ornithology IN bringing the 17th volume of 'the ibis' to a conclusion, it remains for me to thank the many contributors to its pages for the support they have given me. That the former have not diminished in number, nor their contributions fallen off in excellence or variety, may well be subjects of congratulation to the Members of our Union. Birmingham Medical Review. a Quarterly Journal of the Medical Sciences Jun 18 2022 Unlike some other reproductions of classic texts (1) We have not used OCR(Optical Character Recognition), as this leads to bad quality books with introduced typos. (2) In books where there are images such as portraits, maps, sketches etc We have endeavoured to keep the quality of these images, so they represent accurately the original artefact. Although occasionally there may be certain imperfections with these old texts, we feel they deserve to be made available for future generations to enjoy.
