writing the band's smash hit "Money for Nothing" I'd seen the police doing an MTV advert saying "I want my MTV" just saying all together and I thought if I set that to the notes of "Don't stand so close to me" it'll work. Knopfler told Ultimate Classic Rock MTV became more than anyone had ever imagined. "I want my MTV" tells the story of the first decade of MTV, the golden era when its programming was all videos all the time and kids watched religiously to see their favorite bands, learn about new music and have something to talk about at parties. From its start in 1981 with a small cache of videos, MTV originally an initialism for music television, is a 24-hour American cable music video channel officially launched on August 1, 1981, based in New York City. It serves as the flagship property of the MTV Entertainment Group, part of Paramount Media Networks, a division of Paramount Global. The channel originally aired music videos and related web featuring interviews with nearly four hundred artists, directors, VJs, and television and music executives. "I want my MTV" is a testament to the channel that changed popular culture forever. Read more. Previous page. Language: English.

The song was written by Knopfler and Sting, whose only contribution to the song was the line "I want my MTV." The main reason why Sting shares songwriting credits with Knopfler on the song is because the melody of the line "I want my MTV" is very similar to the melody of his hit song "Don't Stand So Close to Me" performed by his band The Police. The web "I want my MTV" may refer to the original slogan of the television channel MTV, a line in the Dire Straits song "Money for Nothing" which reiterates the MTV slogan "I want my MTV."
